JAYNE REDMAN JEWELRY

Nature provides an endless reference for imagination and invention. The linear quality of stems and the fullness of flower buds inspire my jewelry. I enjoy integrating mechanics with design, allowing each piece to function in a visually intriguing way. I work with multiples of the same shape engineering them to fit precisely giving an abstract impression of their botanical origin. Many years of metalsmithing have taught me the power of simplicity. My forms begin as flat metal shapes and arrive as small sculptures. Their complexity is in their conception as curving planes of origami.

Jayne Redman, a Maine native, earned her B.F.A. in Jewelry and Silversmithing from the Maine College of Art in 1977. She began her jewelry career in New York as a design and production assistant for a fashion jewelry company. She started her own company, Jayne Redman Jewelry, in 1982. Jayne first developed and marketed the Floraforms™ Collection in 1996. In 1998, Jayne won the NICHE Award for Silver Jewelry with her Tulip Earrings. She was also nominated in the same category for her Sweet Pea Earrings. That year the American Craft Council selected a piece from her collection as “representative of the quality of work found at all ACC events” to use in advertising their wholesale markets. She was one of two runners-up for the AJDC New Talent Competition in 2000. Jayne’s Calla Lily Necklace was awarded first place in the Pendants-Necklaces category of Lapidary Journal’s Jewelry Arts Awards for 2004. Her Palm Leaf Pin was a finalist in the 2005 NICHE Awards. Her Dahlia Necklace was a finalist in the 2009 Saul Bell Awards.

Jayne has been featured in articles for Crafts Report, AJM/MJSA Journal, Lapidary Journal, Professional Jeweler, Niche, and Ornament magazines. Examples of her work illustrate the books Art Jewelry Today by Donna Z. Meilach, Making Metal Beads by Pauline Warg, 500 Earrings by Lark Books and 20th Century Jewelry - The Best of the 500 Series by Lark Books. She was a contributor to the book Profiting by Design by Marlene Richey.

Jayne is a former faculty member of the Maine College of Art Department of Jewelry and Metals. She teaches workshops nationally, and at Riverview Workshops at Jayne Redman Studio in southern Maine. Jayne is represented by fine jewelry and craft stores across the country.

Dear Customers,

I make every item carefully by hand. First I emboss the silver or gold with a softly burnished texture. I then cut out each element using a hand made blanking die. The edges are sanded and polished and the pieces are drilled and formed using tools I have created for each shape. Occasionally I solder to connect components but most connections are incorporated into the engineering of the item. Earwires are formed with jigs of my invention. I use the ancient Korean technique of Keum-boo to decorate some surfaces with 24 karat gold.

My jewelry is very easy to care for. Ear wires are inserted from the front and can be worn on either ear although some styles may work best with the tip of the wire curving in toward the face. Polishing cloths should not be used in order to preserve the texture. Clean gold or silver pieces by dipping in a solution of warm soapy water and rubbing gently. I like to use Woolite®, especially for pearls. Rinse and dry with a soft cloth. Tarnished pieces can be cleaned by occasionally dipping in Tarn-X®. Use a solution of half water/half Tarn-X for oxidized pieces. Rinse thoroughly in cold water before washing in warm soapy water and drying. Do not dip pearls in Tarn-X®, instead apply the solution to the metal with a paper towel, q-tip, or toothpick, avoiding the pearls.

Never clean items with 24K Keum-boo overlay in an ultrasonic cleaner! It will lift up the 24K Keum-boo overlay!

I take great pleasure in designing and making my jewelry. I hope you will enjoy it. Please visit my website

Best Regards,

All prices are subject to change due to the fluctuating precious metals market. All prices are in US dollars.

Shapes are cut from a sheet of textured silver using a handmade blanking die. 24K gold strips are diffusion bonded to the shapes which are then formed and assembled with 18K gold pegs to complete the Peony bead.

24K gold sheet is rolled to a thickness of .02mm. Alternating strips of 24K and vellum are assembled into a booklet. Leaf shapes are cut and diffusion bonded to the flat shape which is then formed into the Clematis earring.
